Yudan Ying

Kellogg School of Management
Northwestern University
2211 Campus Drive
Evanston, IL 60208, United States

Email: yudan.ying@kellogg.northwestern.edu
Website: https://yudanying.github.io/

Education

2021 – Present	Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Management Ph.D. in Finance (expected 2027)
2017 – 2019	Tinbergen Institute M.Phil. in Economics
2013 – 2017	Erasmus University Rotterdam B.Sc. in International Econometrics and Operations Research (cum laude) B.Sc. in International Business Administration (cum laude)

Research Fields

International Finance, Macroeconomics

Job Market Paper

"Global Financial Integration and Productivity: The Role of Risk Sharing" with Takaaki Sagawa

This paper studies how integration into global capital markets affects aggregate productivity through risk sharing and the allocation of capital. We develop a small open economy model where heterogeneous capitalists choose between producing and investing. Foreign participation in domestic equity markets shifts the country's aggregate risk abroad and lowers the hurdle rate for production. This raises investment and output but lowers aggregate TFP by drawing less productive capitalists into production. Greater domestic financing capacity instead raises TFP by allowing productive firms to expand and displace marginal producers. We validate these predictions using emerging-market equity liberalizations in the late 1980s and 1990s, which were followed by equity price booms, more listings, and slower TFP growth where booms were larger. The calibrated model shows that liberalization alone lowers TFP and raises output only temporarily, while liberalization with deeper domestic financing raises both.

Working Papers

"Revisiting the Global Allocation Puzzle: The Composition of Capital Flows" with Takaaki Sagawa

"Generalist Inventors and Induced Innovation" with Lior Shabtai (co-author's job market paper)

Work in Progress

"Risk Sharing and Credit Allocation in Bank Networks" with Anna Rogantini-Picco

"Fiscal Stress and Macroeconomic Fragility" with Brian Livingston

Research and Professional Experience

2025 – Present European Central Bank, Frankfurt
External Consultant

2022 – 2026 Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Management
Research Assistant for Prof. Efraim Benmelech, Prof. Nicolas Crouzet, and Prof. Zhengyang Jiang

2019 – 2021 ING Bank, Amsterdam
Quantitative Analyst

- Validated internal risk-management models for the banking and trading books
- Calibrated Black–Scholes, factor, VaR, and IRC models and prepared validation reports and responses to ECB inspections

2018 – 2019 De Nederlandsche Bank (Dutch Central Bank), Amsterdam
Research Intern

- Worked with Dr. Razvan Vlahu on real estate finance projects
- Standardized credit risk model validation processes

Teaching Experience

2024 – 2026 Northwestern University, Kellogg School of Management
TA for FINC 473 – Macroeconomic Policy and Global Capital Markets (MBA and Executive MBA)
Instructors: Prof. Nicolas Crouzet (2024, 2025) and Prof. Janice Eberly (2026)

2018 Tinbergen Institute
TA for Advanced Mathematics
Instructor: Prof. Florian Wagener

Awards and Fellowships

2021 – Present Kellogg School of Management Doctoral Fellowship, Northwestern University

2017 – 2019 Tinbergen Institute Full Scholarship

Additional Information

Programming MATLAB, R, Python, Stata, LaTeX

Languages Chinese, English, Dutch

Citizenship the Netherlands

References

Nicolas Crouzet (Chair)
Associate Professor of Finance
Kellogg School of Management
Northwestern University
n-crouzet@kellogg.northwestern.edu

Dimitris Papanikolaou
John L. and Helen Kellogg Professor of Finance
Kellogg School of Management
Northwestern University
d-papanikolaou@kellogg.northwestern.edu

Zhengyang Jiang
Associate Professor of Finance
Kellogg School of Management
Northwestern University
zhengyang.jiang@kellogg.northwestern.edu

Lawrence Christiano
Alfred W. Chase Professor of Economics
Department of Economics
Northwestern University
l-christiano@northwestern.edu

Diego Känzig
Assistant Professor of Economics
Department of Economics
Northwestern University
dkaenzig@northwestern.edu